

RESONANCE

The resonance of wearing Make-up (or choosing not to) with our feelings and behaviour is colossal. We can walk, talk and breathe differently. Prosthetic lashes add consciousness to blinking. Prosthetic nose pieces made for New Noveta contained most of the nasal breathing and so stimulating another type of 'Make-up resonance' through the performance-body.

'Drum-resonance' of course is the basis of all sound, but, the drums, and my interest in them, works with moving between lack of, and abundance of, resonance - doubling and tripling recycled and discarded skins to limit and expand the resonance.
